

76

Beneath the Starlit Skies

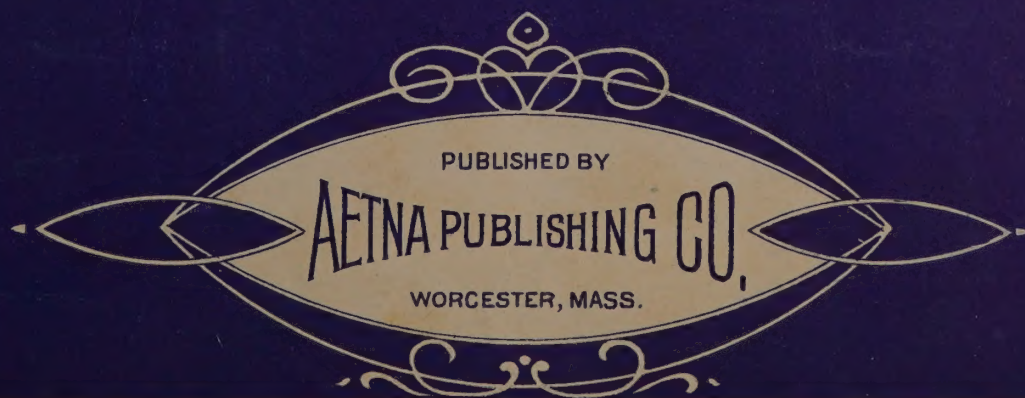

Words and Music

BY

50¢

W. H. Fairbanks

BENEATH THE STARLIT SKIES.

Words and Music by W. H. FAIRBANKS.

Arr. by H. D. EMINGER.

Introduction.

VOICE

Andante moderato.

PIANO

1 On a qui - et sum - mer's eve - ning as I strolled down through the lane, I
2 Now our stroll was near - ly end - ed as we neared her pret - ty home, And met a coun - try maid - en bright and fair. Her eyes shone out like dia - monds and her each one hap - py with our new found love She kind - ly bade me call on her next teeth were gems of pearl. I spoke and begged her tell her pret - ty day at twi - light hour As I was wel come to her pret - ty name She said my name is Nel - lie I'm a sim - ple coun - try maid, And home She told me that she loved me as she gazed in - to my eyes. My love a - mong the wild flow'rs here to roam. I told her that I loved her from the love to her I of - fered in re - turn. I prom - ised I would call next eve if mo - ment we first met, And begged her take me to her pret - ty home.

she a - lone would come, To meet me here be - neath the star - lit skies.

Chorus.

As we strolled a - long to - geth - er in the moon - light clear and bright, She told me pret - ty tales of days gone by. She placed in me her con - fi - dence And then ac - cept - ed mine, And hap - py with my new found love am I.

